Abstract
Descriptive qualitative method is used to discover the types of declarative speech acts found in Steven Spielberg’s “Ready Player One”. The data were collected using observational non-participatory method. The data used were taken from the utterances and narratives that contained declarative speech acts by the characters in the movie. The data were analyzed using the theory of declarative speech acts by Searle & Vanderveken (1985). The data were also equalized using pragmatic identify method. In addition, the technique in this research involved pragmatic competence used in equalizing the theory of Sudaryanto (2015). The result of the research showed that there were 15 utterances that contained declarative speech acts found in Steven Spielberg “Ready Player One”. There were 5 data showed declaring, 1 data showed appointing, 1 data showed denouncing, 3 data showed approving and 5 data showed disapproving. Disapproving and declaring were the most common declarative speech acts found in the movie because the characters had a lot of disagreement in the movie.

Keywords: declarative speech acts, illocutionary acts, pragmatics.
INTRODUCTION

Human interacts with each other on a daily basis. Interaction is done using language in communication whether it is verbal or non-verbal. In pragmatics, the relationship between language and the context is studied regarding sentence usages and appropriateness (Levinson, 1983). Pragmatics studies about how the speaker uses the appropriate response in certain situations because in communication, context is subjective to the speaker and listener. The purpose of a conversation or interaction is to reach an understanding between speaker and listener. If the response is out of context, there will not be an understanding between the speaker and listener. Action also takes part in communication that helps with conversation sometimes more than words can. A good balance between verbal conversation and action with the right context can reach a higher level of understanding between the speaker and the listener.

Speech act refers to the utterance used in order to perform an action by a speaker. (Yule, 2014). Action is not only performed but can also be said by utterances. Searle (1979) stated that Speech acts is categorized into five categories; Representative, Directive, Commissive, Expressive, Declarative.

Desica: Maybe we can take some time off work and do our assignments tomorrow.

Desica: Yes, we can meet up at our usual place.

The utterance above was spoken by Desica (the speaker) to Ricca (the listener). The utterance happened in a conversation between the two. The speaker approved the listener’s suggestion of taking some time off work and do assignment together. The utterance is considered declarative speech acts because the speaker approved the statement of the listener.

Ready Player One is an American movie based on a novel written by Ernest Cline in 2011. Steven Spielberg was the direction for the movie, from with Zak Penn and Cline in charge of the screenplay. The genres of the movie are Science Fiction, Action, and Adventure. The movie is featuring Tye Sheridan, Olivia Cooke, Ben Mendelsohn, Lena Waithe, T.J. Miller, Simon Pegg, and Mark Rylance.

Parzival: “Aech’s work is top rated on the modboards.”

This utterance existed in the movie “Ready Player One” at the minute of 00.17.14 - 00.17.17. The utterance was spoken by Parzival (the speaker) to Artemis (the listener). Artemis came to Aech’s warehouse with his unfinished works displayed on the warehouse. Wade or in the case Parzival, declares that Aech is a well-recognized engineer in the OASIS. The sentence is considered a declarative speech act. Parzival stated the sentence with the purpose of defining Aech in front of Artemis during their meeting.

In this paper, the writer will focus on Declarative Speech Act on Steven Spielberg’s “Ready Player One”. The writer will analyze utterance which contains declarative speech act.

There are several previous researches concerning speech acts, first Praditya et al. (2014) analyzed the speech acts found in the conversation in the film entitled “Habibie and Ainun” in the year of 2012. In the research, the researchers used conversation in the film as a data source and analyze the data source using the types of speech acts by Yule (1996) and the classification of illocutionary speech acts by Searle (1977). Direct speech acts were most prevalent. Illocutionary speech acts were dominated by representatives.

Second, Sembiring & Ambalegin (2019) analyzed the types and the function of context of illocutionary act found on the movie Aladdin. The research used Searle (1977) theory of illocutionary act to analyze the data. The result shows that the most frequent types of speech acts found is directive speech acts among 30 utterances found containing speech acts.

The researchers used the different theory for the types of speech acts but the same theory on the classification of illocutionary speech acts by Searle (1977) with the previous researches found. The researchers focused on analyzing the declarative speech acts found in the movie while the previous research analyzed the types of speech acts, the classification and also the function of context of.

REVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

Declarative Speech Act

Speech act refers to studies of how utterances perform actions as a part of pragmatics (Yule, 2014). An action is not only done by physical action but also by utterances when spoken. Searle (1979) categorized illocutionary acts into five general categories of assertives, directives, commissives, expressives, and declarations. It is mentioned in the background that this paper is focused on declaratives speech acts. According to Searle (1976) and Ilie & Norrick (2018), Declarative speech acts describes a fact and performing the fact by utterances. It is also mentioned that declarative speech acts are performed in declaring, appointing, denouncing, approving, endorsing.

A. Declaring

Declaring is the type of declarative speech acts that voice out an opinion or to make known of something. As stated by Searle & Vanderveken (1985), Declare derived from latin ‘clarare’ which means to make clear.

Referee: “You’re out!” (Yule, 1996)

B. Appointing

Appointing is the type of declarative speech acts that assign someone a role or job. It is delivered by the speaker toward an interlocutor which gives them a role or position. As stated by Searle & Vanderveken (1985), Appointing is a declarative speech act where one assigns a person to take on a position or status.

“I hereby appoint you chairman” Searle & Vanderveken (1985)

C. Denouncing

Denouncing is the type of declarative speech acts that announce or inform wrongdoings publicly. As stated by Searle & Vanderveken (1985), Denouncing is similar in meaning to ‘accuse’ which is to terminate something by declaration.

Jury Foreman: “We find the defendant guilty” (Yule, 1996)

D. Approving

Approving is the type of declarative speech acts that agree or accept to an action or statement. As stated by Searle & Vanderveken (1985), Approving is to declare that something is valid or good.

“Keep it up. You can continue” (Wicaksono, 2018).

E. Disapproving

Disapproving is the type of declarative speech acts that disagree or deny an action or statement. As stated by Searle & Vanderveken (1985), Disapproving is when one refuses or withholds approval from an application.

Judge: Besides lawyers are forbidden. Take him away (Wicaksono, 2018).
RESEARCH METHOD

This research conducted using the descriptive qualitative research. Qualitative research is used in order to achieve the understanding of the phenomena found in society. The data source taken in this research was the utterances which contain declarative speech acts. The observational method is used as the method of collecting data. The observational method is to observe the use of conversational method in the data source Sudaryanto (2015). A non-participatory technique is also used in this research as the researchers did not participate in the data source. In collecting the data for this research, the first step is the researchers downloaded and watched Steven Spielberg’s “Ready Player One”. The second step is to read the entire movie script. After that, the researchers watched the while reading the script at the same time and highlighted utterances that contained declarative speech acts to be the analyzed.

To analyze the data this research used pragmatic identity method. The method was used in this research because of the data source was utterances from characters. In addition, the technique in this research involved pragmatic competence used in equalizing the theory of Sudaryanto (2015). The theory of Searle (1979) was used in analyzing the data for this research. In analyzing the data, the first step, the researchers find the context behind utterances in the movie. Second, the utterances found were analyzed using the theory of Searle (1979). Lastly the result of the analysis will show the types of declarative speech acts in the movie “Ready Player One” by Steven Spielberg.

FINDING AND DISCUSSION

4.1. Finding

This research revealed that declarative speech acts appeared in the movie. There were 15 declarative speech acts utterances uttered by the characters in the movie. The types of declarative speech acts uttered by the characters were declaring, appointing, denouncing, approving, and disapproving. The total of declarative speech acts are shown in table 1.

CONCLUSION
Declarative speech acts appeared in different situations whether to declare an opinion or facts. Declarative speech acts was found in the conversation and the narrative of the movie “Ready Player One”. The types of declarative speech acts uttered includes declaring, appointing, denouncing, approving and disapproving. Disapproving and declaring are the types of declarative speech acts uttered the most in the movie. The reason for that is because the characters had a lot of disagreement in the movie with other characters.

Declarative speech acts is an action itself. So when the character disapproved an action, it is considered speech acts because the speaker disagrees or against the action.
done by the listener. The declarative speech acts were uttered because the speaker wants to achieve the action by speaking.
